VON RIBBENTROPTold Germany's not Ready For Peace Until England Is Subdued(By Associated Press)
BERLIN, March 1.—Germany is not prepared even to discuss peace until and unless Britain's "stranglehold on the economic life of the world" is broken—this in effect is understood to have been the general thesis of the first talk today between President Roosevelt's fact-finding emissary and Adolf Hitler's foreign minister.Moreover, Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop is understood to have told Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles that until Britain's dominance is ended,
Germany is unready to entertain Secretary Hull's ideas concerning elimination of autarchy, regimentation and totalitarianism from the post war economic world.Ribbentrop's Own Idea Sources in Von Ribbentrop's confidence developed this idea so strongly to this correspondent that there can be little doubt that Ribbentrop himself gave this line of talk to Welles, with whom he was closeted soon after the American's arrival this morning.The talk began at noon and lasted until 2:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m. E.
S. T.)Later Welles announced that his interview with Chancellor Hitler had been set for 11 a. m. tomorrow (5 a. m. E. S. T.).
Welles, arriving from Rome,
where he already had conferred with Premier Mussolini on his fact-finding mission for President Roosevelt, was greeted in the German capital this morning with the shrieks of air raid sirens which were unintentionally martial—it was a regular alarm rehearsal.It was understood that the main purpose of Welles' talk with Von Ribbentrop was to prepare the ground for the American's meeting with Fuehrer Hitler probably tomorrow.Only a "Pinprick"
In developing the thesis that Britain has a stranglehold on the world, Von Ribbentrop was believed to have told Welles that British censorship of American clipper mail at Bermuda was a mere pinprick for the United States compared

She's Police Chief As Women Rule Town

Elaine Carpenter

Bachelors in Aurora, Ill., were put on the spot Feb. 29, that Leap Year date, by the town's leading women who ran the town as they pleased. For example, the mayor for a day, Audrey Kessel, decreed that any male refusing marriage proposals would go to jail—or else. The chief of police, Elaine Carpenter, pictured above, had her trusty gun ready for all law offenders.

Henry Weisgerber, Nature
Lover, Dies In YoungstownFormer Salem Resident Succumbs After Month's Illness; Funeral To Be Held SundayHenry W. Weisgerber, 69, of Youngstown, former Salem resident and widely-known naturalist, died at 3:10 a. m. today in St. Elizabeth's hospital, in Youngstown following an illness of four weeks.

An authority on nature subjects, Mr. Weisgerber was author of the column "A Country Diary" which appeared in The Salem News for many years while he was a resident of Salem. The column was devoted to comments on his observations of the habits of birds, the nature of plants and flowers, weather conditions. Their causes and effects.

Writings Now In Library
His writings, together with photographs of nature subjects, covering a period of 25 years of study, were compiled into five volumes several years ago and placed in the reference room of the Youngstown public library.Two of the volumes contain more than a thousand press clippings from The News, and Youngstown papers to which he contributed regularly. A third volume tells of his ramblings through Mill Creek park in Youngstown where he "hunted" with camera and field glasses. Some of his earliest contributions to the press, dating as far back as 1902, are contained in the fourth volume, while the fifth volume is a collection of articles on topics of the day.Formerly employed in the blue print department of the old Buckeye Engine Co., Mr. Weisgerber lived in Salem until 1917 when he moved to Youngstown. While living here he provided The News with weather reports in addition to his "diary" and other articles.He was born at Weyauwega in Waupaca county, Wisconsin, and came to Salem in 1891, working for a short time in a barber shop here before going with the Buckeye Engine Co.Worked In Youngstown

had been chief of the blue print department of the Youngs-county commissioners announced today they would issue $70,000 in bonds to secure funds for relief purposes.The commissioners had planned on a $100,000 issue but County Au-board yesterday that a $75,000 issue would be the maximum according to law, since the county could not issue more than 70 per cent of the total tax delinquency.Whittemore contracts and other taxes, Fisher said.Big Marlin Bagged

February, 1939, readings of 68 and year ago measured 3.93 inches.The month came to a close with no sub-zero weather. While Old Man Winter reigned supreme last month, farmers were unable to do much outdoor work. Stock required plenty of feed. Wheat plants are in good condition, Copeland said.Normal temperature for the 48-

2.25 inches. The year 1939 had the warmest February on record, with

HELSINKI, March 1.—Finnish defenders struggled today to hold Viipuri, bomb-blackened and deserted Gulf of Finland port, from Soviet Russian forces closing in almost at its gates.A reinforced Red army stepped up the pace of its onslaughts in an attempt to strike the knockout blow of its month-long drive against Finland's key city on theAsks for Reports

Finnish relief campaign chairman, today appealed to all persons who handled tickets for the recent benefit motion picture to file their reports just as soon as possible, regardless of whether they sold any tickets or not.Dr. Harwood and his committee want to complete their checkup as quickly as possible in order that reports may be made to the national organiza-

with receipts of $966 from out-said the Russians had sent fully 19 fresh divisions, nearly 300,000 men, into the isthmus fighting.

Finns Fall Back

The Finns fell back to stronger positions, mined Viipuri bay and manned artillery in an effort to stave off encirclement by preventing the Russians from crossing the ice in north of the Kolvioto fortified area to the west and rear of Viipuri.(A Red army communique today said the Russians were only a little more than a mile from Viipuri and were closing in from the south and east in a "developing" offensive.In its advance, the communique said, the Russian army captured 270 more Finnish fortifications—including 66 iron and concrete forts
—and occupied Pero, Heinjoki and Ayrappa, all on the Viipuri-Valk-järvi railroad. Heinjoki is about 14 miles east of Viipuri and Ayrappa about 12 miles further east.)

Air Raiders Active

While the Finns struggled to stem the Russian tide on the western side of the Karelian isthmus, they coped with flames and casualties from air raids which struck many cities.Fleets of Russian bombing planes, which raided some cities in waves and appeared to have left almost no area unscathed, blazed a trail of death and flames over a wide area.
The attacks yesterday included three alarms, but no bombs, in Helsinki.Many civilians died and many others were injured.

H. Anthony, 53, president and general manager of the Massillon Steel in Mount Park hospital at St.

man came today in the announcement that the outlook for March is two weeks of winter weather of a milder nature, coupled with more sunshine, normal temperature and above normal precipitation.L. H. Copeland of Millport, the U. S. cooperative observer in the district, added, however, that spring would be a backward one.Much snow covered the ground in February, a month of normal temperatures. There was a total of 14.5 inches of snow during the month and 2.71 inches precipitation. Except for 10 days, the observer recalled, the ground has been covered with snow since Dec.
21, and there were only six days with a reading above 40. The snowfall in February, 1939, measured 10 inches.

Errors Of New

At E. PalestineMore Than 300 at Enthusiastic Rally Hear Norwalk Congressman; Mounting Debt, Trade Pacts, Unemployment AttackedThe Republican campaign in Columbiana county got under way officially last night in East Palestine as Congressmen Dudley White of Norwalk and Earl R. Lewis of St. Clairsville addressed more than 300 county men and women, calling for improved employment, preservation of American markets for American workmen, reduction of the national debt and, in general, repudiation entirely of the Roosevelt New Deal.The county-wide rally, arranged by East Palestine Republicans, with Campbell George as chairman of the committee, was held in the Methodist church. Atty L. M. Kyes, toastmaster, presented State Senators Ray Palmer of Barnesville and Roy Merryman of Steubenville; Columbiana county leaders and approximately 50 Republican candidates for officers at the May 14 primary. Group singing was led by Roy G. Sutherland of East Palestine and John Coleman of East Liver-

One of the most enthusiastic meetings Columbiana county Republicans have held for several years, it attracted a number from Salem, as well as virtually every other section of the county, and, in addition, a delegation from Martins Ferry headed by Mayor Lee Woods.Congressman White, candidate for the U. S. senate, now serving his second term as congressman from the 18th district, was introduced by Congressman Lewis.Lewis, in a short talk, stressed the fundamental split between Republicans and Democrats, condemning the Democratic policy of collectivism as compared with the Republican policy of the individual before the state.White, in his opening remarks, commented on Dr. Glenn Frank committee report listing recommendations for aiding American industry and achieving a balanced budget in 1942. The Frank program committee of more than 200 Republicans, reporting after a two-year survey, pictured the New Deal as "misunderstanding economic America" and falling into "fatalism of outlook." It outlined the Republican position as favoring an expanded "free enterprise" in the belief that "our private economy has not come to a dead end."Refers to Young People White referred specifically to young people who have been graduated from school. When these people go out to get jobs, he said, they "find the game called on account of the New Deal ruin."He assailed the mounting, national debt, then broke it down into Columbiana county figures, showing a tax debt which would be equal to a levy of 43 per cent on county property.He referred to the reciprocal trade pact fight, on in the senate, showed how vital the outcome is to American industry and particularly the pottery industry. Cheap Japanese goods are being sold at a loss.

WATER EVERYWHERE

Flood control appropriations gurgling again in the Washington pork barrel supply an overture for another spring flood season. Politically, the nation never was more water-conscious than it is now.

Ohio, with an aggravated flood control problem receiving expert attention from both engineers and politicians, recently has begun to think about water in another connection—conservation.

It has been warned not to take its water supply for granted. The water it needs to save threatens to become as important as the water it needs to hasten on its way to the ocean with as little damage as possible.

As yet, water conservation has been favored with relatively little attention by engineers and none by politicians. But there is a problem.

Conservation of water calls for long-range planning to guarantee adequate supplies to urban areas as well as to farm areas. The problem is particularly acute where cities are concerned. It must be approached there by direct and costly methods; it will not yield to general measures.

In its nature, therefore, conservation is related closely to flood control. Both are concerned with an essential commodity, one treating it as a menace, the other as a treasure. Yet, in development of flood control there has been relatively little attention given to correlation of the program with water conservation. I suggest that when the former has been completed to the satisfaction of engineers and politicians, it might be discovered that they became so preoccupied with one side of the water problem that the other side was ignored.

BRITISH BUSTERS

Before the United States takes Bermuda to get even with the British for steaming open our letters, as proposed by no less than a United States senator, there are a few things to consider.

First, Bermuda has nothing to sell of any importance except climate and scenery. This is in its favor. Its products would not be in direct competition with home manufacturers.

Second, its chief customers for climate and scenery are Americans with a cash surplus, so possession of the island would be just like taking the money for its upkeep out of one pocket and putting it into the other.

Third, it would be a joy and delight to the navy, which could build an Atlantic defense plan on it and put a lot more money into circulation, besides pointing with pride to the plan itself.

Fourth, Bermuda has no taxes on real estate, incomes or inheritances, which would make it a kind of curiosity under the stars and stripes, provided it is desirable to flutter the stars and stripes over the island.

That's the joker. The United States could seize Bermuda by force or pry it away from the hard-pressed British empire by hard-nosed negotiation. But then the United States would be as guilty of imperialism as any of the governments it now is viewing with alarm. Wouldn't it?

TRIAL RUN

Ohio Republicans, cheered by party victories in the 17th and 22nd congressional districts, where special elections were held Tuesday, naturally claim that these trial runs show how things will go next November. Democrats shouldn't be too indignant; if the elections had gone their way they'd be claiming the same thing. It's the kind of an argument that can be settled best by waiting till next November.

Election of Mrs. Frances P. Bolton in the 22nd district gives Ohio its first congresswoman. Mrs. Bolton won election in a strongly Republican district, by promising to continue the principles of her late husband, Chester C. Bolton. In the 17th district, J. Harry McGregor defeated Byron B. Ashbrook, nephew of the late William A. Ashbrook, Democrat, who had been elected to 10 different congresses. The family name lacked magic, however.

The new members of the house of representatives will serve till dissolution of the 76th congress, sometime this year—a matter of months. It is worth noting that the two special elections cost between $125,000 and $150,000. Splitting the difference to make $137,000 and dividing by 115,572, which was the number of votes cast, an Ohioan can discover at least one certain fact. The trial run, whatever it proved, cost approximately $1.18 a vote.

SUBVERSIVE HOLLYWOOD

It's good news that the Dies committee is going to sniff through the sound stages and palatial hangouts of the movie industry. There's bound to be some good come of it.

Here's a hot tip:

A movie producer in the higher income tax brackets orders his underlings to grind out a picture at an overhead of $25,000 a day. A boxoffice star under contract for $250,000 a year is given the lead and ultimately, at a cost of $1,500,000, a picture is produced.

Joseph E. Doakes and his missus drop in to see it one night and sit enthralled while the boy meets the girl, gets rid of the other boy and love conquers all. When they get home and Joe wants to rest his feet, Mrs. Doakes snaps, "Put on your shoes. Smooth down your hair. Quit smacking that gum. We need new curtains in the living room. I wish we had a swimming pool. I haven't a thing to wear. Do you know how long it's been since you kissed me as though you meant it, you, you, you."

Right then and there dissatisfaction sets in. It's un-American and the Dies committee should bring it into the open.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, March 2

DESPITE the menace of trickery, duplicity and subtle pitfalls, this should be a day of very definite progress and great personal happiness. A determined effort to succeed by hard work, perseverance and sound principles will be crowned with prosperity, stabilized fortunes and the recognition of elders and superiors. But be wary, discreet and sagacious every step of the way, as treachery menaces. Much personal happiness also obtains.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which there may be very decisive steps in the direction of putting the affairs on firm foundations through industry, sound initiative and practical principles. This will give much stability to the fortunes, increase the possessions and gain the attention of superiors. But in all be alert to deception and fraud, and discreet in all particulars. Sign papers cautiously.

A child born on this day may be industrious, responsible, deep and shrewd. It may have high principle and sound character. Practical, capable and earnest, it should make a fine success of its life. Social and affectional qualities should not be missing.

Now that Al Smith's Empire State building has failed to earn enough to pay the interest on the mortgage the only thing left is to install a couple of gas pumps in front.

Democratic-New Dealers are determined the Republicans shall hold their national convention first. They want to be in position to say it's all a pack of lies.

Undersecretary of State Welles is scheduled to talk with Hitler, but he'll be lucky if he gets to do more than listen.

Back Pain Seen As Symptom Of Any Of Varied Diseases

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

LOW BACK pain may be symptomatic of a number of conditions, i.e., digestive disease, gynecologic disease or nervous system diseases, especially neuritis of the sciatic nerve, in which case it is called "sciatica." However, most cases are due to a strain or relaxation of (1) the joints between the lowest vertebra and the sacrum or (2) the joint between the sacrum and the pelvic bones.

The latter has often been called "sacro-iliac dislocation" and a good deal of technical criticism has been leveled at this name. Much recent work on the subject has, I think, definitely established the fact, first, that there is a sacro-iliac joint, and, rather than being dislocated, it may be relaxed or strained, giving rise to the acute, chronic or current pain over the back of the hips.

Brilliant recent work by Doctor Justus, of St. Louis, has given the orthopedic surgeon a definite method of conservative treatment of this condition, one successful in a high proportion of these conditions.

Lumbo-sacro arthritis or sprain comes from forces acting anteroposteriorly, such as gravitational stresses, sudden jolts, falls on the behind in the sitting position, and violent movements of the leg and back, such as jumping out of the way of an approaching motor car, etc.

The sacro-iliac sprain comes from lateral strain. It is much more likely to be due to chronic stress, such as partial imbalance of the body.

Addresses 300 At East

anese labor makes it difficult for United States manufacturers to compete, he declared.

Congressman White, former American Legion state commander, made one brief plea for peace, praised the various veterans' organizations and their work and declared that the most dangerous threat against the peace of the United States consists of the subversive influences from within.

Returning to politics, he emphasized the results of the recent Ohio special elections, particularly that in the 17th district where J. Harry McGregor was named over Byron B. Ashbrook, a Democrat, in a district re-represented for the last nine years by a Democrat.

Swing From New Deal

A distinct indication of the swing away from the New Deal, he termed the Republican victory.

White outlined his own program as candidate for senator.

He would: Take relief out of politics.

Return the federal government to an impartial role in settling labor disputes.

Recover delegated powers.

Stop the campaign of class hatred.

And, finally, preserve American markets for American farms and factories.

Telegrams of congratulation on the opening of the campaign were read from Alf Landon, former presidential nominee; John Hamilton, national chairman; Robert A. Taft, Thomas Dewey and Arthur Vandenberg, all mentioned, as Republican presidential possibilities.

Miss Gross And Ray Kenreigh Are Married At Bride's Home

Wearing a formal gown of white tulle with long train and three-quarter length veil, Miss Helen Frances Gross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden E. Gross of Canfield, became the bride of Ray M. Kenreigh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert V. Kenreigh of R. D. 4, Salem, in a ceremony at the home of her parents last evening.

Rev. R. D. Walter, pastor of the Presbyterian church here, officiated at the ceremony at 8 p. m. in the Gross home on South Broad st. Vows were exchanged in the living room before a setting of banked candelabra, ferns, palms and potted plants. Arrangements of white stocks and Calla lilies and white candles in seven-branch candelabra provided the bride's note in the decorations. Other flowers, including white snapdragons and buddleia, were used throughout the home.

The Wedding Music
The wedding music included the following numbers: Preceding the ceremony, "O Promise Me" sung by Miss Margaret Schuster of Salem; "Because," sung by Mrs. Otto Sarzenbacher of Youngstown; and "I Love You Truly," Miss Ruth Rice of Canfield; and the Mendelssohn wedding march played by Miss Marian Fowler of Canfield, who accompanied the vocal numbers.

The bride's gown was formfitting with the back skirt falling into a long train. Sleeves were long with shoulder fullness shirred. Her veil was arranged in a Juliet cap of seed pearls and her only ornament was a string of pearls.

She carried a bouquet of cat-tails, orchids, pansies and buddleia, showered with buddleia and maidenhair fern and tied with wide white silk ribbon.

Miss Mary Catherine Roehbe of Canfield, little cousin of the bride, was trainbearer. She wore a long frock of rose crepe and corsage of Talisman roses.

Miss Hood Maid of Honor
Miss Lella Hood of Canfield, maid of honor, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of pink tulle with quilted girde of the material outlining the waistline. Her bouquet was of yellow Gloria roses, Marguerites and blue star-flowers, tied with yellow chiffon. She wore a cuff of arrangement of pink schizanthus.

Carl McQuilkin of Salem served Mr. Kenreigh as best man.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Gross, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Kenreigh, the groom's mother, were dressed in dark blue. Their corsages were of yellow Gloria roses and gardenias, and Talisman roses with gardenias.

A reception was given at the home, following the ceremony, for 80 guests. Relatives and friends attending included Mrs. Irwin Turner and two daughters, Jean and Gloria, of Pittsburgh, aunt and cousins of the bride.

Following three weeks wedding trip to Florida and through the south, Mr. and Mrs. Kenreigh will make their home in Canfield.

The bride, a graduate of Canfield High school, attended Youngstown college and has been employed as stenographer for the Kniseley garage here.

Mr. Kenreigh, a graduate of Salem High school, is employed as salesman for the Salem China Co.

to what all Europe, as well as Asia feels all the time.

So long as England holds Gibraltar and the Suez canal, for example—so Von Ribbentrop is supposed to have argued—there is no security for the rest of the world. According to the German view England uses economic strangulation as one of her chief weapons for holding the rest of the world in submission, and therefore Germany is rendering a service to civilization in challenging Britain's right to such a practice.

Germany, in the foreign office view which was undoubtedly was communicated to Welles, would rather fight to the bitter end than agree to a compromise by which for some years, when England is in control of strategic control points governing raw materials and the world's business, she decides to get enemies and neutrals by the throat again.

HORSE REMAINS FACTOR IN WAR

Shipments to Europe Indicate "Old Dobbin" Important Item

WASHINGTON. — The National Geographical society reports that recent shipment of more than 1,000 horses from the western plains of the United States to Europe's battle front, indicates that "old dobbin" is still an important cog in modern war machines, just as he was in the World war of more than 20 years ago.

In connection with the recent European purchases of horses for military use despite large scale mechanization of fighting forces, the society recalls that during the World war more than 950,000 horses and 345,000 mules were shipped from this country to Europe.

The society points out also that during the Civil war the Union forces required at least 500 horses a day. The ratio of horses and mules to the number of men was virtually the same in the last war as it was in the Civil and Boer wars.

Horses Traced to Cortez

Tracing the history of the American horse back to its origin in this country, the report states that the present animal is a descendant of those imported from Spain by Cortez in his conquest of Mexico and that De Soto also brought horses to Florida on his inland expedition.
"The horses were released in Texas after De Soto's march to the Mississippi river and with those coming up from Mexico," the report states, "were the early ancestors of the wild mustangs" that ranged the western plains.
"The society believes that the first wild horses changed the life of the American Indians, who recognized the animal's value as a more mobile fighting force." They were used additionally to enable the Indians to extend their hunting ground as well as for fighting purposes.

Britain Furnished Stock

Returning to a discussion of the ancestry of the American horse it is pointed out that with the exception of the early Spanish stock, most of the horses brought into the colonies before 1776 came from the British Isles. Noted especially as breeders of heavy draft animals, the British also imported racing stock after 1750.

"The ancestry of many of the better breeds of horses in Tennessee, Kentucky and other southern states," according to the survey, "can be traced back to Virginia." The horses were sent there from England for the stables of the southern aristocracy.

While horses are still being used for war purposes, their domestic use has steadily decreased since 1915. Since 1925, when there were 17,589,000 horses on farms, the number has declined today to fewer than 11,000,000.

Theatre Attractions

Two long established comedians of stage and screen, Mae West and W. C. Fields, are teamed for the first time on the screen in "My Little Chickadee", which shows at the State tonight and Saturday.

The story concerns a glamorous beauty who comes to a small western frontier town in the 1890's to visit relatives. The stage is held up by a masked bandit who escapes with the visitor's jewels. The whole town becomes aware of its visitor when the bandit is seen to visit her room. Three suitors are vying openly for her hand while the masked bandit has also fallen beneath her spell.

Fields, a medicine man and card sharp, nearly wins her when she catches sight of a bag of bills in his possession. He loses her when she finds out the money is counterfeit. Undaunted, he continues to strive for her favor, while a crusading young editor appears to have the lead in the romantic contest when the bandit appears again.

A mob mistakes Fields for the thief and starts to hang him. But for the timely intervention of the glamor-girl who sends the bandit off without his ill-gotten gains and convinces the mob Fields is innocent, the medicine show would have lost its star.

At the Grand tonight and Saturday is "Cowboys From Texas" with the Three Mesquiteers, Robert Livingston, Raymond Hatton and Duncan Renaldo.

SPORTS OR SUNTAN DRESS
Pattern 4401

Very young ideas has this spirited new Anne Adams dress, Pattern 4401. Make an everyday style, a sleeveless suntan version, or both! The button-trimmed, curved sections at either side of the round yoke form becoming straps on the low-back sun frock. The softly bloused bodice lines are fine for action, and there's a back-tying sash for a trim waistline. Because fashion endorses pockets this year, add either dashing big pockets, or the smaller ones to this style. Why not use cool all-white linen, pique or sharkskin. Or, for an arresting note, you might let the sleeves and yoke be in brave bold contrasting color.

Pattern 4401 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric.

Tells Story of Security
Kiwanis club members, following luncheon, yesterday in the Memorial building, enjoyed a graphic presentation of a story of security, in the form of a motion picture produced by the Institute of Life Insurance.

TROUBLE FLARES AT BRICK PLANT

Picket Removed, Summitville Area In Court
Eye Again

LISBON, March 1.—Less than 24 hours after the special deputy had been removed from the picket line at the plant of the Summitville Face Brick company trouble again flared as the picket tent was fired and burned to the ground, shortly after noon Thursday.

Deputy Sheriff O. W. Stacey was summoned to the scene by the men on strike, who charged three company workers from the plant set the picket headquarters afire. Deputy Stacey reported F. H. Johnson, president, and H. K. Lynn, plant superintendent, were out of town and could not be contacted, and that Henry Steltz, in charge of the plant, denied any knowledge of the company men starting the blaze.

Sheriff M. K. Duty, after conferring with Judge W. F. Lones, dispatched a special deputy to the front where the labor troubles have been a source of annoyance and expense to the county for over a year. Both sides have repeatedly been cited into court in violation of an injunction issued from the court, and there has been at least one special deputy on duty there for the past 12 months, with three serving several months and a force of six on duty for a time following rioting at the plant last Aug. 22.

The strike began in February, 1939, when it was claimed by the union that Johnson refused to sign a contract and restore wage reductions, while the management claimed the union demanded a higher wage scale than was being paid in the Canton district plants.

Recently the need of a special deputy was considered no longer necessary at the plant so Judge W. F. Lones rescinded a former court order and terminated the duties of the officer on Wednesday.

LONDON—Mural painters and designers who have turned their ingenuity to beautifying the black-out have held an exhibition. The purpose of the show was to demonstrate that protective boarding, shutters and sandbags need not make shops and theaters ugly.

BOULDER, Mont. — An airplane was used by Mayor Don Holloway and Assistant Postmaster David McCauley to plant several cans of trout fly in Whitetail dam near here under supervision of the Forest Service.

processes have kept us from losing the business," Purdy said.

"Old plants in this country are being scrapped in favor of automatic machines for fast, positive production."

Refinements
He explained that refinements in kiln building and installation of such devices as revolving tables, which pieces are placed, kilns, quickly and removed from the moving table, had increased production so much that the piecework cost had dropped and permitted successful competition with imports.

Purdy listed among recent American and Ohio developments: Cooking dishes which will not break under extreme and sudden temperature changes; copper red glaze at Lancaster, O. which duplicates the "lost" Chinese colors; and fiber glass plates for batteries to lengthen their life and save space by replacing mica.

Article Tells Of Campaign Against Syphilis In Nation

[This is the second of two articles on the role of motion pictures in the government-led campaign against syphilis. This deals with non-commercial scientific movies bringing new knowledge to doctors.]

BY ALBERT W. WILSON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK—In an attempt to open up a new field for medical attack on the disease, a microscopic movie history is to be made of the mysterious life of the spirochetes of syphilis.

Its purpose will be to reveal for the first time how this germ continues to live and reproduce itself after it is broken up, thereby making it possible for doctors to detect the disease in both its early and dormant stages.

The film will be made with government approval by Dr. Francis P. Lucas of the Bell Telephone laboratories, a world renowned expert in microscopic photography. Six years ago Dr. Lucas discovered hitherto new ways of making fingerprints visible and of marking ransom money with invisible dyes which show up under ultra-violet radiation.

New Microscope Used
The motion pictures are made with a new microscope, the first of its kind, that photographs small objects never seen clearly before. The new microscope, moreover, will make three-dimensional movies. This is done by using colored rays of light, like searchlight beams. The beams cross in the "field" where the germs are being photographed. The objects of the two sides of the film are different and this provides great improvement in visibility and three-dimensional appearance.

His methods make possible a biopsy or study of living cells, as contrasted with an autopsy. Physicians say that it may be a step toward solving the primary mystery of life itself.

His photography of spirochetes, magnified 3600 times on the film, may confirm what scientists have long suspected—that a spirochete, which looks like a tiny pale worm when active, survives in an infinitesimal dot when broken up, and that this dot, or granule, may grow again into a spirochete.

The spirochete itself is so thin and delicate, it cannot be seen alive under an ordinary microscope. Characteristics of the granule are even more difficult to bring under observation.

Scientists know granules, taken from one animal and injected into another, may develop into spirochetes. This could possibly explain how a child may be affected by syphilis even after its parents pass negative blood tests. Although a male sperm is too small to carry a spirochete, it could carry the granule.

Dr. Lucas' film may help doctors to diagnose syphilis in patients even before the usual blood tests show positive evidence and thus make possible much quicker cures.

Dr. Lucas will be aided by Dr. Theodor Rosebury, Columbia university bacteriologist, who has just completed, with the aid of Paul Anderson an expert photographer the first movie made of various kinds of spirochetes the pale germ of syphilis as well as the spirochetes of mouth diseases and harmless varieties. Its value to doctors and students is that it enables them to distinguish the various kinds.

Movie Is Praised
In what the American Social Hygiene association describes as the best movie made of live spirochetes of syphilis Dr. Henry Roger of the Rolab laboratories recently produced 60 feet of film showing the elusive germs twisting turning and lashing through specimens of an infected animal. It will be included in "With These Weapons" a picture to be released for public showing by the association.

Its production was an exciting drama itself. Because special precautions are necessary to preserve spirochetes in a living state Dr. John F. Mahoney senior surgeon of the U. S. Health Service raced by car from Staten island to Dr. Roger's laboratory in Connecticut with a live infected animal. The laboratory is far from cities and towns where vibrations might affect the photograph.

A group of scientists worked all day and late at night preparing specimens and taking the pictures with special lamps and lenses. Even when they were through they could not tell if they had succeeded. The prints showed 600 feet of hundreds taken were successful.

Screen Player Gloria Dickson, wife of Perc Westmore, Hollywood beauty expert, is reported missing. She was last known to be in New York City.

Perilous Parking

PIERCE CITY, Mo.—Cleta Fern Perriman, 3, went riding with her brother Wilbur, 19. Wilbur parked the car on top of a 60-foot bluff and got out.

The car started to roll, went over the bluff and into a shallow lake.

Cleta Fern was injured only slightly. Wilbur leaped from the cliff to save her and sprained his ankle.

LONDON—While sitting in his favorite chair in the kitchen, William Walsgrove, 56, collapsed and died. A few days later his widow died suddenly while sitting in the same chair.

It Backfired

MEXICO, Mo. — Bootblack R. T. Scott advertised shoe shines at 5 cents a foot. It got him a dime on most jobs.

Then the ad backfired. Customer Forrest Arnold asked for an 8-cent shine, claiming his feet are not two-feet long.

OTTAWA—Gitz Rice is back in Canada to do his bit. Gitz is the composer of "Mademoiselle from Armentieres" and "Dear Old Pal of Mine", as well as a dozen other 1914-1918 hits. He is helping the Canadian Legion War Services in their work among the armed forces.

CHISOX REMAIN IN CUSTODY OF COMISKEY HEIRS

Court Refuses Petition of Bank Asking For Sale Of Team

CHICAGO, March 1.—The Chicago White Sox will be playing baseball for the Comiskey family this summer just as they have since the birth of the American league.

The First National bank, executor of the estate of J. Louis Comiskey, tried unsuccessfully yesterday to get court approval for a proposed sale of the property.

Hence, the bank will continue to operate the club for Mrs. Grace Comiskey and her three children, all of whom opposed the contemplated sale.

The bank sought permission to call for bids on the White Sox on the grounds that ownership of a baseball club is a "hazardous" business from an investment standpoint.

In denying the bank's petition, Probate Judge John F. O'Connell said:

"The court does not have the power to order sale of the stock without consent of the widow. For 40 years the club has been a part of the fiber of Chicago life. Charles A. Comiskey was a national figure. The Sox are recognized as a Comiskey property and his grandson, Charles II, bears his name."

Greater Value
"If this property can be conserved in its entirety it is possible its value would become greater than it is now because of continued association with the Comiskey name."

KNOX OUTPOINTS JORGE BRESCIA

Heads Upward by Taking Decision Over South American

CLEVELAND, March 1.—Buddy Knox, Dayton's Blonds Bomber, is headed upward on the boxing ladder again.

Placed eighth in national rankings a year ago and subsequently tumbled by losing to Nathan Mann and Harry Cooper, Knox got started on his "comeback-at-23" campaign last night by hardily outpointing Jorge Brescia, of South America.

Brescia, who went three rounds with champion Joe Louis in 1936, had won six straight fights on his second American tour. Knox's infighting and bolo punches were too much for him and the Argentine managed to win only one round, the last. Two rounds were even and the Dayton Irishman pounded out decisive margins in the others. Brescia was groggy and bleeding badly in the fourth. Knox's best stanza. Buddy weighed 192 and Brescia 196½.

Boxing Lesson
The other 10-rounder on the card, watched by 4,434 fans provided a boxing lesson for Willie Muldine, Cleveland's former national amateur light heavyweight title. The Negro scrapper, scaling 175, was unable to reach Teddy Yarosz, of Pittsburgh, with his dangerous punches and the Pittsburgher took an easy decision. Yarosz, who weighed 172, won all but two rounds, which were even.

Charlie McCarthy, 160, of Canton, took a six-round decision over Don Blatchford, 160, of Lorain. The loser, boxing coach and a freshman student at Bowling Green University, went down for a nine count in the final round.

The two other preliminaries ended in knockouts. Joey Wells, 123, of Cleveland, stopping Joe Forchione, 127, of Canton, in the first; and Mickey Dugan, 186, of Cleveland, dropping Chet Esmond, 180, of Canton, in the second.

MAKING A HIT

By Jack Sords

HAROLD REESE, 20-YEAR-OLD BROOKLYN SHORTSTOP RECRUIT PURCHASED FROM LOUISVILLE

RIGGS MAY NOT PLACE ON TEAM

Davis Cup Captain Likes Looks of Don McNeill For This Year

NEW YORK, March 1.—No matter how good Bobby Riggs may look today in his indoor tennis championship match with Chicagoan Frank Froehling, it's still doubtful he'll be able to impress Walter Pate.

The Davis Cup captain has had an eyeful of Don McNeill in full flight, and he hasn't seen him so bubbling since Don Budge turned pro.

Fundamentally, Pate doesn't much care for Riggs' type of game. Bobby, while National and Wimbledon champion, is strictly a baseliner, and Pate has no patience with baseliners. His teachings, as best carried out by Budge, stress offensive tennis at all times.

McNeill is cut to the Pate pattern. Nor is that accidental. "Last summer," said Walter, "I told Don there were only six strokes he needed, to master the attacking game—forehand and backhand volley, smash and service. He held out for greater variety, thought he should have a chop and lob."

Defensive Shots
"I told him those were strictly defensive shots, all right for baseliners like Tilden and Riggs, but no good for attack. I told him to stick to his six, and he could thumb his nose at anybody."

McNeill didn't do anything so indecisive yesterday, but he did use every one of the half-dozen strokes to perfection in routing Frank Bowden, veteran New Yorker, and thus gaining his place in the final. It was that straight-set 6-4, 7-5, 6-4 triumph which Pate saw. "If there's any one of Don's strokes which stands out," Walter continued, "it's his backhand. Right now I'd rate it second only to Budge. I expect him to do at least as well as Riggs this year."

McNeill's first chance will come tomorrow when, if Bobby gets by Froehling as he's expected to, Riggs and McNeill will battle it out in the title match.

CADETS DEFEAT BAPTIST QUINT

Carroll Club Team Continues Unbeaten In Round Robin

Remaining unbeaten in the Class B league's round robin tournament, the Carroll Cadets stopped the Baptists, 21 to 17, at the Memorial building last night.

The victory was the Cadets fourth of the round robin, while the defeat was the Baptists first of the tournament. By reason of their victory, the Cadets moved up even with the Baptists in the season's standings. Both teams have won 11 games, lost two.

Guard Rogers flipped five field goals and a pair of free throws through the hoop to lead the Cadets in scoring with 12 points.

Playing a non-league game, the Deming Co. passers brought a Lishon team, 33 to 19. Lutsch and Panzotte led Demings to the victory. Lutsch counting 12 points and Panzotte eight.

Columbiana Faces Mesopotamia Five

COLUMBIANA, March 1.—The Columbiana Clippers will face Mesopotamia at 9:30 tonight in their second game of the sectional Class B basketball tournament at McDonald. A win over Mesopotamia will qualify Columbiana for the district tournament at Kent.

Several hundred Columbiana fans are expected to go to McDonald to see the Clippers meet Mesopotamia, which advanced to the second round by nosing out Salineville, 28 to 26.

The Columbiana squad reached new high honors this week when the entire first team was named on the Tri-County league all-star squad, the selections being made by the coaches of the seven league teams. Captain Burke and Bill Dewalt were unanimous choices for the first team. Bill Hollinger was named as center on the second team, while Zellers and Gieckler received honorable mention.

STATE WOMEN'S BOWLING MEET NEARING CLOSE

Ladies' Tournament Will Come To Its Finish This Weekend

COLUMBUS, March 1.—Ohio's annual women's bowling tournament winds up this weekend, but with only 26 teams due to roll, the girls now leading the various divisions figure they are "in."

Middletown, Mount Vernon and Norwalk quintets are scheduled to make their first appearance, along with others from Tiffin, Elyria, Newark, Cleveland and Columbus which have been represented before.

If the present scores stand up against the final barrage, Cincinnati will take the team title for the fourth straight year. The Reidelinger Funerals of the Queen City hit 2669 two weeks ago for first place, and the Kathman Shoe Repairs of Cincy are second with 2611. Reidelingers won in 1937. Kathmans in 1938, and the Stegner Lambs of Cincinnati copped the crown a year ago.

Millie Klier of Cleveland appears safely "in" for the Class A singles with 632, while her 1765 all-events count is the second highest in the tournament's history. Peggy Freidel of Cleveland holding the record with 1847.

Lead Doubles
Ruth Sauer and Estelle Roegner of Columbus lead the Class A doubles with 1163, just 27 short of the record.

In Class B the leaders are: Singler—Esther Goodpastor of Dayton, 581; doubles—Verne Wengroski and Violet Perry of Toledo, 1060, considered the shakiest of the leading marks; all-events—Majorie Bressler of Toledo, 1629; team—Queen Beauty Salon, Columbus, 2446. The Whip Grills of Columbus, with 2199, have clinched the Class C team honors, competition having ended in that division.

Seabiscuit Bids for Record

Seabiscuit, seven-year-old "iron horse," gets his big chance in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap in California to beat Sun Beau's all time money-winning mark of $376,744. Biscuit is only $26,670 short of the record. His fitness is testified by his victory in the San Antonio Handicap last week when he tied the track record. In the saddle (above) is Jockey Johnny (Red) Pollard.

SPORT CHATTER
Don't be surprised if the country's golf professionals fail to tear the Cleveland Canterbury course apart in the National Open June 6, 7 and 8. The layout will be stretched to around 7000 yards for the big event. A couple of years ago, when the course was much shorter, Ralph Guldahl and Horton Smith finished in a tie with par for 72 holes in the Western Open, and Denny Shute's 67 in 1932, also in the Western Open, is the best the top-notchers have been able to score for a single round.

In 1932 the course was a "shorty" compared to its present length. The 623-yard sixteenth hole, longest in the middle west, is expected to be a back-breaker, while the Lake Erie winds sweeping across the course won't help the scorers a bit.

Two Pro Events
Speaking of golf—Ohio will play host to the professional kings for two consecutive weeks this summer. As for the Canterbury classic, where Byron Nelson will defend his National Open title, 16 of the best will move over to Toledo Inverness, where Nelson takes over this year as professional, for the annual four-ball round-robin team matches the following week. The dates are June 13, 14, 15 and 16. Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, only two-time champs, are title defenders in the $5000 Toledo scrap.

Johnny Swartz, who succeeds L. C. Boles as Wooster's football coach this year, will start spring practice March 4. Swartz also is the baseball coach, and he faces a pretty diamond problem. He has eight pitchers on the roster—but none has ever hurled in a college game.

Mansfield Relays to Give Wrist Watches to Winners

BY FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, March 1.—What the Ohio sports boys are doing! Looks like Harry Mehack, director of the Mansfield relays, stole a march on George Gauthier, director of the Ohio Wesleyan relays. For the first time the two High school track-field events will be on the same day, April 27 and the scrap for talent is on.

In the past the two directors have offered cups to the winning schools, with belt buckles or medals to the individual champs. But this year Mehack is offering 15-jewel wrist watches to all individual and relay winners, so if the track coaches allow the boys to vote on which meet to attend, it looks like Mansfield by a landslide.

Reduce Requirements
Since 1932 Oberlin college has required its soccer, fencing and golf players to participate in intercollegiate contests two years before awarding them a letter, but starting next fall those sports will be put on a one-year basis along with football, basketball, track, baseball, cross-country, tennis and swimming.

Folks in the eastern half of the Buckeye realm will be interested in the fact the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Football league will be known as the "steelers" in the future.

Harry Short, Columbus harness horseman, has purchased the Canadian sensation Ryan Grattan, 2:03 1/4, from W. L. Fraser of Forest, Ont. Cleveland's North Randall track is trying to promote an October meeting to follow the Grand Circuit closer at Lexington, Ky.

CLOSE CONTEST IN SWIM MATCH

Fremont Ross and Canton McKinley Will Put On Scrap for Title

COLUMBUS, O., March 1.—Another close scrap for the state high school swimming title is booked in Ohio State university's pool Saturday afternoon, with Fremont Ross and Canton McKinley co-favorites.

A year ago the Fremont and Canton squads battled through the eight-event program to finish even with 39½ points, with third-place Sandusky getting 18. On the basis of this year's district results, the 1940 meet looks as close as the 1939 classic.

With eight teams competing, Fremont won the district meet at Toledo with 54 points, while Canton McKinley, opposing 11 other squads at Cleveland, won with 49½. Western Hills took the Cincinnati district event with 51½ points, after failing to score in last year's state meet.

Seven Stars Back
Only seven individual point-scoring in the 1939 state meet will be back, three from Canton McKinley, two from Fremont, and one each from Coshocton and Toledo Scott.

Other teams eligible to send members of their squads are: Western Hills, Walnut Hills, Hughes, South and Grandview of Columbus; Middletown, Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home, Hamilton, Sandusky, Scott, Dvibiss, Waite and Libbey of Toledo; Lima Central, Cleveland Heights, East Tech and Shaw of Cleveland; East, West, Buchtel and Garfield of Akron; Lakewood and Coshocton.

The state scholastic wrestling meet, in which Cleveland schools copped the four top berths a year ago, will be held Saturday in the O. S. U. gymnasium. Approximately 120 entrants are on the card. Cleveland John Hay grapplers won the title in 1939 with 23 points, while West Tech, J. F. Rhodes and Garfield Heights of Cleveland tied Bellaire Shadyside with 14 points for second place.

Alive Because—

Indigestion has saved the life of Patrolman Martin H. Callahan of New York. That is, because Callahan had indigestion he carried a box of tablets. Because he carried the box, the accidental discharge of his gun after thwarting a holdup attempt was deflected and the slug glanced off the box instead of into Callahan's body.

GREECE PLANS NEW ECONOMY

Self-Sufficiency Is First In Putting Its House In Order

ATHENS—Greece has enjoyed political peace for six months now and thousands of citizens are keeping their fingers crossed lest it end all too soon.

The government has abolished political struggles and strikes. Many leaders of the Communist party are in jail or internment camps. The freedom of many of these prisoners depends on their signing a declaration of allegiance to the new regime. Widespread arrests, it is said, and seizure of secret wireless stations and printing shops have disrupted the Communist organization.

One of the most important diplomatic events in recent months has been the improvement of Greco-Italian relations which assumed a concrete form in the exchange of notes between the two countries last September. Another important development was the guarantee given to Greece by England and France.

Safety in Facts

These new events added to the already existing Balkan pact and the Greco-Turkish alliance, constitute for Greece a solid frame of safety against the new war in Europe.

The war has had a serious effect on export trade, especially tobacco, currants and sultanas on which Greek economy relies considerably. Germany, which was Greece's most valuable tobacco customer, has ceased buying. Although France has begun to buy some tobacco since the outbreak of war and Britain may become a possible purchaser, large quantities are expected to remain unsold. The government plans to face this problem by restricting tobacco cultivation during 1940.

Farm Production Advanced

Ever since the war was declared, the Greek government has taken measures to intensify agricultural production. Cereals, grapes, olives and cotton are the chief products aimed to make Greece even more self-sufficient.

Industry is constantly being advanced, especially textiles, weaving, soap, paper and foodstuffs generally. Greece hopes to increase exports to the Balkan countries. The war has made it difficult for other European nations to supply them.

War also gave fresh impetus to the already prosperous Greek shipping which represents an important branch of the national economy. The Greek merchant marine totals approximately 1,900,000 tons occupying ninth place in world mercantile fleets. What profits will be lost because of the war are hoped to be almost wholly regained by increased revenues in shipping.

Time to Change

PITTSBURGH—Executive Frank Lea of the Carmel-Ilinois Steel corporation signed his name "P. Lea" until he got a letter addressed to "Mr. Lea".

NEW ORLEANS—New Orleans beauty parlor operators have built a floor under the price for glamour. Under a code adopted by a majority of the local beauty shop owners, a minimum of $3.50 can be charged for a permanent wave, 50 cents for shampoos and sets, and 50 cents for a manicure.

Aquabelle Sues

Appearing in Supreme Court, New York, Ellen Moore Goff, World's Fair Aquacade showgirl, asked for separation from her actor-husband, Jerry Goff, permanent alimony and custody of their 3-year-old daughter. She charged Goff beat her so severely that she suffered a brain concussion.

"RED EARTH" by TOM GILL

CHAPTER XXXIV

In spite of the ranchers' speed, Douglas knew he could not wait for them to join him. The flare might bring the raiders back before their time, and more would be gained by a surprise attack than by numbers. He called a rider to his side. "Go to the Neale ranch. Tell Alison to wait at Arroyo Grande until a half hour before dawn, then to come with all speed to the Cobre mine. Tell her to bring every rancher and vaquero."

On they rode. Nearly four o'clock. In two hours more it would be light, and Douglas increased the pace. Behind him his vaqueros were strung out in a long line, each trying vainly to keep up with the fleet thoroughbred, and at the canyon entrance Douglas reined in to let them overtake him. There while they rested their animals, he called the little band about him.

"The raiders may have guards stationed in Cobre," Douglas told them. "It will be safer to circle along the ridge. In less than an hour we should be above the mine. Everything depends on surprise. Their gun-racks are directly opposite the entrance. If we can reach those rifles before they do, the battle's ours. Then stampede the horses and we've got them bottled."

"Suppose they put out the lights?" Russell asked.

"They won't. They'll need the lights to reach their rifles. We've got to make short work of them and be ready to receive the Killer when he gets back at dawn. But remember, if things get hot, you can find good shelter behind the mine timbers and along the walls." Douglas raised his reins. "One thing more—Ed Paxton is in that mine."

No more. No need for more. A low growl crept among the listening vaqueros, and Douglas knew that the heart of each vaquero harbored the same resolve.

Up over the ridge they climbed, and out along the windswept shoulders of the foothills. Then guardedly they descended into the upper fork of the canyon where Cobre slept, and Douglas dismounted near the edge of a pine grove. Tying their horses, the men fell in behind him, moving silently down the path.

In the sky above, all trace of clouds had passed, the night was bright with stars—the storm could give them no protection now, but impatient for the end, Douglas hurried on. Just ahead awaited the culmination of all his plans, the moment he had labored for throughout an entire year, the moment every desert vaquero had hoped would some day bring deliverance from the terrorism of months.

For him, victory could have but one outcome—to bring him face to face again with the Killer. He alone.

A shout. Out of the blackness two figures loomed ahead, and struck motionless with amazement at sight of the vaqueros, they stood for a second gaze, then crying aloud in terror, turned. Not daring to fire, Douglas and Russell threw themselves at the two men. Seizing the nearer one, Douglas felt with him to the ground, his hands about the raider's throat. But Russell was not so fortunate. Missing his hold, he sprawled full length on the trail, and the man fled shrieking toward the mine.

No chance for a surprise attack now. The alarm had been given, and breaking into a run the vaqueros plunged with Douglas into the entrance.

Down through the long tunnel

they streamed into the mine, past ore-cars and workings, then on to where the timbered door stood open. Another step and they had burst into the great circular room. Floodlights drenched the place with illumination, and from every corridor men were pouring, making for the gun-racks on the wall. Some, already armed, began firing as Douglas entered, and signaling his vaqueros to take shelter, he stepped behind a pile of heavy packing cases.

Deadly quiet, as always in the face of danger, he rested his rifle on the box before him, then fired, and a raider fell backward at the foot of the gun rack, while to right and left the rifles of his own men began to rain a deadly volley into that shouting, milling mass of men across the room. Figures were falling prostrate or crawling painfully to shelter; shrieks of stricken raiders filled the room. But they had reached their rifles now and others were still pouring in from the tunnels, picking up the guns of their prostrate fellows. More familiar with the mine than Douglas' vaqueros, they were finding shelter in every crevice, behind each box and barrel; back in their rope corral a hundred head of horses huddled in terror against the wall.

The battle was joined. Steadily, unceasingly on both sides men fired, reloaded, fired again, while the smoke of their rifles gathered in a thick gray cloud above them, dimming the lights, filling the room with the acrid sharpness of burnt powder that bit into their lungs and brought tears to their stinging eyes.

Outnumbered, outflanked on both sides, Douglas' men were being forced closer together as through the smoke pail, a slowly advancing ring of fire poured mercilessly in on them. He shouted for his vaqueros to spread out along the timbered wall, but they could not hear, and with each moment he saw they were crowding themselves into a corner, becoming an easy target for that withering fire. His own rifle was hot in his hands, his lungs choked with the poisonous air something had to happen—something soon.

A hull. Then from beyond the entrance a shot rattled from far down the canyon, and a wild hope was born in Douglas' heart—if it could be Alison and the ranchers! Both sides had ceased firing, as if each one awaited the outcome, while outside a band of unseen horsemen came pounding nearer. Then in quick succession three shots were fired from just beyond the mine and a great roar of triumph rose from the raiders—the Killer's band was returning.

Two horsemen already had reached the entrance, and before they could find shelter Douglas' men dropped them from their saddle. But in another minute the rest would be swarming into the room, half a hundred of them, turning the tide of battle, wiping out the hardpressed vaqueros before help would come.

Only one chance now—to gain time. Crouching, keeping well back to the wall, Douglas ran to where the herd of pure-breds crowded in terror back within the rope-enclosed recess that served as a corral. With both arms he swept together a pile of dry hay, and in the center dropped a lighted match. Hungrily the flame caught, spreading in an ever-widening circle, while in mad haste Douglas scattered handfuls of blazing hay about him.

Panic-stricken, the herd surged forward, the rope enclosure snapped, and with a roar that drowned even the sound of rifle-fire, they headed for the entrance just as the returning raiders came crowding through. Like a restless onrushing wave that galloping mass of stampeded animals struck the vanguard of the Killer's band, checking them, forcing them back, jamming them helplessly against the rocky wall. Men fell, and before they could cry out heavy hoofs crushed them; horses reared in vain effort to escape that agonizing pressure as caught helplessly before the mad-dened herd the raiders were swept out of the tunnel and back down the slope—Douglas had secured his moment's respite.

Now the flames had reached the nearby stacks of hay, filling the place with bluish smoke, choking vaqueros and raiders alike. Clouds were billowing out through the entrance; it was no longer possible to distinguish friend from foe, and with one accord all made for the tunnel.

Douglas was among the last to fight his way outside. His first thought was to look toward Cobre, but down below the stamp mill the lower gulch stretched empty out to the desert. Would Alison and the ranchers never come? Already to the east the sky was brightening—a cold autumn dawn breaking over the foothills was taking away the last protection of darkness.

Down the gulch a sudden crash of rifles told him the battle had been renewed, and calling to the few vaqueros still about him, Douglas made for an abandoned shack. Not far away a handful of his men had taken shelter in a corner of the stamp mill; others were firing from behind a line of empty ore-cars, and now more fiercely still the fight resumed.

Once encouraged by their greater numbers, the raiders rushed, hoping to wipe out the remaining vaqueros in one overwhelming assault.

Foot by foot the raiders forced their way forward, paying the cost with lives for every step. Almost they had gained the wall itself, but now they stopped, uncertain in the face of that steady fire, while down behind them, urging on the wavering men, towered the hulking figure of Ed Paxton.

Douglas saw him. Headless of his vaqueros warning shouts, indifferent to flying lead, he stepped outside the sheltering door of the shack and raised his rifle. Almost at the same instant Paxton caught sight of him, and in that instant both men fired. A bullet flattened against the raiders behind Douglas' head, but Paxton had fallen to his knees. Cold and deadly, Douglas watched him, ready to fire again as painfully Paxton raised his face in a last glare of hatred at that waiting form above. Slowly he sank back. A tremor ran through his huge body, his hand went to his throat, he tried to cough, then limply he slumped forward in the dust.

As Paxton fell, the raiders abandoned the attack to take shelter among the loose boulders, but they were closer now, their bullets splintering the timbers of Douglas' refuge, forcing him and his vaqueros

Plans Mass Census Protest

William L. Austin and Senator Tobey

Senator Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire (R.) plans a mass protest against census "snooping" by government workers soon to begin taking the 1940 census. Senator Tobey plans to call persons from "all walks of life" before the senate commerce committee to dispute propriety of many projected questions.

to seek refuge lower down.

Wiping the sweat from his eyes, Douglas looked down the gulch. No more shelter. Nothing but bare, perpendicular cliffs. It needed only one determined rush for the raiders to break over him and his remaining vaqueros like an obliterating wave.

He had thrown away his rifle and was using his automatic now, fighting savagely but without hope, sustained only by a grim determination to make them pay to the utmost before the end.

A hoarse cry. "Look!" A vaquero had gripped his arm. Down the canyon a group of raiders were throwing aside their rifles and racing madly for shelter. A burst of shots. A cheer. Not daring to hope, Douglas peered across the barricade, and a second later jumped to his feet, crying aloud to his vaqueros.

Up the canyon past Cobre, hatless, hair streaming behind her, Alson Neale came tearing, and behind her five tan-shirted rangers. Reached at their head. Close on their heels nearly half a hundred ranchers raced, shouting their shrill defiance, firing into the center of the fleeing raiders. With a roar, of thundering hoofs they swept past Douglas and his beleaguered men, riding down without mercy the terrorized band of the Killer.

No quarter now. There in the dawn the ranchers were repaying with full interest the injuries of the past years. With rifle and knife old scores were being settled as the sun rose. Riding low, revolvers blazing, Felipe thundered by, taking his vengeance for a son found riddled at a waterhole. Warner, Neale, Baker—the desert ranchers were remembering the names of those dead as they flung themselves into battle.

In another moment they had disappeared. (To be continued)
